AESIR SPACE

Expanding the boundaries of space insurance

Aesir Space is a London-based specialist space insurance MGA. The facility provides 'A+' rated protection worldwide for launch, in-orbit and associated space risks developed by underwriters with a strong working knowledge of the sector.

Led by Morten Pahle, a leading figure in the space market, Aesir Space applies a rigorous approach based on technical, commercial and industry experience to the underwriting and construction of its coverages. Providing both risk-specific policies and fully integrated umbrella coverages, solutions are available for every phase in the application lifecycle, from AIT, manufacture and transit through to launch, in-orbit and de-orbit, as well as for third-party liabilities.

TECHNICAL FOUNDATIONS

With new entrants, new technologies and NewSpace rapidly expanding the boundaries of the space market, Aesir Space's technical foundations support its ability to closely monitor and respond to the evolving risk environment.

Working with brokers and clients to develop customised cover, the team's risk remit extends from standard manufacturing, testing and launch covers, to more innovative products to cater for new hardware such as smallsats and compact launchers, including alternative missions and unique payloads.

INSURANCE AS AN ENABLER

Aesir understands that clients want to protect their business plans and not merely insure their assets. We see insurance as an enabler; protecting clients' business plans enables them to obtain finance and grow their venture. This means providing coverages tailored to each client's needs and having a full understanding of the environment they operate in.

- Highly technical, innovative underwriting
- Extensive knowledge of space market
- Umbrella and standalone 'A+' cover
- Worldwide reach, broad risk appetite
- Meaningful line-sizes
- Expert advice on placements
- Quick underwriting and policy turnaround
- Specialist claims handling

DATA-DRIVEN DELIVERY

Accurate risk assessment is based on the capture and analysis of high-resolution industry data on aspects ranging from advances in satellite design to the latest launch failure statistics down to the individual component level.

The Aesir Space platform is built on an advanced data-rich, highly efficient technology platform that connects every component of the workflow, supporting enhanced decision making and speedy submission response, and enabling rapid policy production.

Offering consistent risk assessment based on technical underwriting insight, Aesir Space delivers the scientific rigour that the space industry demands.

E: morten.pahle@volanteglobal.com

Morten has over 20 years of risk management experience in the space industry and over 15 years in the insurance market. His technical knowledge gives Aesir Space a unique perspective on the space insurance market.

During his underwriting career, he was Founder and Managing Director of ViVet Limited, an MGA focused on space, aviation and energy. He was also UK Branch Manager at Glacier Insurance (now Starstone Insurance) and a Space Underwriter at Assicurazioni Generali.

His risk management credentials stem from his work as Group Risk & Insurance Manager at EADS Astrium Satellites (now Airbus Defence and Space) and he started his career as a Reliability Engineer on LEO meteorological satellites.
